Biography

Destiny Reese is a 2L at Emory University School of Law, where she serves as President of the Tax Law Society, Secretary of the Georgia Association for Women Lawyers, and Staff Member of Emory Law Journal.

Destiny was Kostelanetz's inaugural Spelman College intern during the Spring 2021 semester. She graduated summa cum laude from Spelman College in May of 2021 as an Ethel Waddell Githii Honors scholar. She received a B.A. in English with a concentration in writing. At Spelman, Destiny served as the President of the Morehouse Spelman Pre-Law Society and Vice-President of the Sigma Tau Delta English Honor Society. While at Spelman, she also served as a mentor, tutor, and peer assistant leader, which allowed her to fulfill a passion for service and leadership. After graduating from Spelman, Destiny joined Kostelanetz as a pre-law paralegal.

Destiny is an advocate for policy reform and educational equity. She interned with Breakthrough Collaborative, an organization committed to increasing academic opportunity for underserved students in the metro Atlanta area. At Spelman, Destiny participated in SpelReads, a program designed to improve the literacy rates of students in the Atlanta Public Schools system. She also worked as a research assistant in Spelman's English Department, where she assisted a project that explored the Black Arts Movement of the 1960s and the ways in which the movement's rhetoric prompted reform for the Black community.
