Biography

William's practice encompasses all phases of federal and state tax controversies including tax audits, tax appeals, and court proceedings before the United States Tax Court and other federal courts.

William clerked for the Honorable Joseph W. Nega of the United States Tax Court. After his time at the Court, William worked as a tax controversy attorney at Chamberlain Hrdlicka and Morris, Manning & Martin in Atlanta.

William received his J.D. from the Georgia State University College of Law and his LL.M. in Taxation from University of Florida. Prior to law school, William received a BBA in Management Information Systems and a BBA in Risk Management and Insurance from the University of Georgia and worked in IT for a Fortune 50 company.

During law school William worked in the Phillip C. Cook Low-Income Taxpayer Clinic and maintains an active pro bono practice helping low-income taxpayers.
